SPEAKERS HECKLED

Crowd Calls for Logan a Second Time

Candidates for city offices turned the open air political gathering Wednesday night at Austin avenue and Fourth street into a ring for wordy prize fights, sparring and punching at each other while the crowd of several hundred men and women loudly cheered and heckled their favorites.

P. T. Williams, chairman of the meeting, let the oratorical give and take go unchecked, but rapped sharply with his gavel when the audience threatened to stop several of the speakers by cheering for other candidates.

The climax

The climax of the meeting came when J. H. Washburne, candidate for mayor, said, "I could enumerate a number of things that have gone wrong over there at the city hall and Logan says he's responsible for all the acts of the administration, good and bad."

"Let's have 'em," cried Logan, and the audience took up the cry, adding "hurrah for Pink!" and "hurrah for Logan!"

Washburne then charged the administration with wasting $100,000 in a sewer pipe contract, selling the improvement bonds without providing funds for paying the interest and having to borrow the money for this from the bank, high taxes, the gas situation and the attitude of the administration toward the Port Arthur Traction company.

Calls for Logan, and "Let him speak!" "Hurrah for Pink!" "Come on, Pink, you tell 'em!" rose from the audience as Washburne left the platform.

At the close of Dr. Welch's speech, Logan returned to the platform and explained his side of the sewer pipe deal, the interest for the bond sale, his program for bettering taxation in Port Arthur, and the attitude of the administration toward the Port Arthur Traction company.

BUILDING HERE TAKES BIG JUMP

April Permits 136% Over April, 1922

Building permits in Port Arthur for the month of April increased 136 per cent over the same period of 1922, according to the monthly statement prepared for the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas, which was mailed out yesterday for the month of April by Roy Stump, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The statement shows that a total of 223 building permits were issued here during April, having a total valuation of $2,024,088, while for the month of March this year 184 were issued, carrying a total valuation of $1,555,435.

The percentage increase for April over March, in permits issued, is given in the statement at 42.9 per cent, while the valuation for April increased 32 per cent over March.

In comparison with the same period of time, in 1922, the percentage increase in permits issued is placed at 136 per cent, while the values for April, 1922, which are carried at $2,024,088, from a total of 103 permits issued, gave way to a gain of 228.2 per cent for April this year.

OSWEGO LOSS IS NOT DETERMINED

Vessel at Local Gulf Docks Catches Fire

Fire believed to have originated from a leaky oil line in the fire or engine rooms on the steamship Oswego, tied up at the Gulf Refining company's docks, raged for two hours after last midnight while practically all the fire fighting equipment at the refinery was assembled on the docks fighting the blaze aboard the vessel.

Due to the flooded condition of the fire rooms and engine rooms on the Oswego, the extent of damage to the vessel could not be determined today. G. N. Bliss, head of the marine department of the Gulf company, said late this afternoon. The flames on the ship were confined to the fire rooms and engine room, he said.

ROMANCE OF AN ICE CREAM PIE

Ice cream pies are here again but the novelty of this one was worn off by a Porter street street car.

He bought a pie to take home somewhere out at the end of Porter street. After paying for it he made the error of putting his wallet in his side pocket and the pie in his hip pocket. When he boarded the car in the five o'clock rush for seats Wednesday he sat on it.

He says it felt rather cold.

TRANSFER OF GAS CASE IS OPPOSED

Technical Point Arises in the Rumored Application

A twist in the city's injunction suit against the People's Gas company loomed today that may result in an early hearing before Judge E. A. McDowell in the 60th district court, instead of before Judge George C. O'Brien, in the 58th district court, where the case was set for a hearing May 18.

Summoned to appear before Judge McDowell at 2 p. m. today to discuss the injunction matter, Vernon J. Westner, city attorney, said he will contend the legality of the transfer of the case from the 58th to the 60th district court on the grounds that the 58th district court is in vacation until May 7, in the event this angle of the case develops in the discussion this afternoon.

Low Seeks Early Hearing

Judge McDowell called me up at my home last night at 10 o'clock asking me to be in his court this afternoon at 2 o'clock and talk over the injunction matter with him. Westner said, "I understand E. J. Low, manager of the gas company, has been trying to get the case transferred from the 58th district court to the 60th in order to expedite the final hearing on the case," the city attorney said.

Just what steps the gas company officials have taken to have the case brought up in the 60th district court and a speedy hearing had could not be learned from Low, who was out of town, according to word from his office.

Majority Bills Not Mailed

Whether gas consumers will still get the 10 per cent reduction on bills paid before the tenth could not be learned today, as no bills have yet been mailed out, except to the larger consumers, given special contract rates not affected in the injunction suit. It was said at the gas company's office. The point arises in connection with the possibility that they may not be mailed before the tenth of the month.

Bills to other consumers have not been mailed pending the outcome of the injunction suit filed by the city restraining the gas company from collecting its 82.5% rate, and ordering the company to collect the $2.25 rate fixed in the ordinance. It is said.

FRENCH REJECT GERMAN OFFER

30 Billions Insufficient, No Peace Guaranty

PARIS, May 3.—The French cabinet voted unanimously today to reject the German offer for settlement of reparations made yesterday in a note to all the allies.

Premier Poincare denounced the German proposal as unacceptable to-day as the cabinet was called into extraordinary session to determine a course of action.

The cabinet objected to the offer on the following grounds:

1.—The amount of thirty billion gold marks is primarily insufficient to meet war damages.

2.—The guarantees offered don't fully safeguard France.

3.—The conditions attached are unsatisfactory to the French, who wish complete surrender.

The action of France is considered here to place the situation in exactly the status maintained since the French army went into the Ruhr valley to collect its reparations.

LEGION NEUTRAL IN CITY ELECTION

Post Commander Says Report of Ticket is False

Branding reports that Rudolph Lambert post is supporting various candidates in the coming city election "falsehood and without fact, foundation or truth," Guy T. Halton, post commander, today issued a statement disavowing the claim the post is taking part in politics.

Halton's statement follows: Action by the entire post Wednesday night when the Legions were not on record as not being in favor of taking any part in politics as an organization. The post commander's statement in full is as follows:

"On account of the persistent rumors that are being circulated, alleging that the Rudolph Lambert Post of the American Legion is supporting various candidates in the coming city election, I wish to make the public declaration that such allegations are based on a tissue of falsehood and are without fact, foundation or truth."

"I emphatically disavow the claim of any person or political group setting forth that the Rudolph Lambert Post of the American Legion is taking part in politics and supporting any candidate or political faction."

No Cause For Alarm In Location of 'Q' Ship Officials Tell Sabine

Some uneasiness about the results of the government ordering a vessel anchored at Sabine for quarantine detention purposes was brought to Dr. T. J. Liddell, U. S. public health surgeon, in charge of the Sabine district, by Dr. J. A. Gibson, county health officer, from residents of Sabine today.

"There is no cause for alarm on the part of the Sabine residents," Dr. Liddell said, pointing out that the vessel will be well screened and anchored at least 1,000 feet from any habitable point. "The government is taking every precaution to protect the residents of Sabine, and I believe the location of the quarantine detention barracks on the vessel will be much better than the present arrangement," he said.

MAKE NEW WORLD RECORD

TO ASK BIDS FOR PT. NECHES WELL

Council Authorizes Move to Get Fresh Water

Will a new artesian well at Port Neches flow fresh water, bringing Port Arthur its realization of a long cherished dream of a saltless water supply?

Optimism is divided, some holding that a carefully set casing in a new water well will shut out salt water seepage, others contending that the ground is saturated with salt water and it is impossible to keep it out of the city's wells at Port Neches.

At any rate, the city commission Wednesday afternoon authorized Harrison Fischer, superintendent of the water department, to call for bids for drilling another water well for the city at Port Neches.

While plans for the additional well at the city's park property in Port Neches are being made now, it is not contemplated to start actual drilling work on the well before the new administration comes in, it was pointed out.

TRI-CITY LIONS HERE MAY 17

Locals Inaugurate First of Get-Togethers

Lions from Orange and Beaumont gather in the Port Arthur Lions' den May 17, inaugurating the first of a series of tri-city meetings.

This is the word given out today by J. L. Dunn, president of the Port Arthur Lions club.

Plans for the entertainment of the visiting Lions, other than a tour of the city, refineries and water front, have not been completed, Dunn said. The visitors are expected to assemble in Port Arthur about four o'clock in the afternoon of May 17, and spend the entire evening in this city. Because of the condition of the grounds in Lions' park, it will be impossible to make the tri-city Lions meet on the seventeenth the occasion for formally dedicating the rest room and hand stand in the park, Dunn said.

The accident occurred shortly after he left the court room where he sentenced 28 speeders to jail for terms of from two to sixty days in the presence of twelve maimed children.

Lloyd Allison, 19, driver of the machine that struck Bartlett's car, was speeding at the time of the accident, witnesses declared.

ARMY AIRMEN COMPLETE FIRST NON-STOP TRIP

2,750 Mileage Rolled Up Between Suns

WILD DEMONSTRATION MacReady and Kelly Almost Mobbed By Admirers

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 3.—Lieutenants John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, United States Army, landed at North Island Air Station, San Diego, at 12:27 p. m. today having completed history's first non-stop airplane flight across the continent.

The feat was a new record for the longest airplane flight.

The two aviators had been in air approximately 27 hours between Mitchell Field, N. Y., and North Island, San Diego.

The air distance between New York and San Diego is approximately 2,100 miles. The best previous distance flight by an airplane was from San Diego to Indianapolis, by Kelly and MacReady, a distance of 2,000 miles.

May Exceed 2750 Miles

The flight they completed this afternoon probably will exceed in distance 2,750 miles, when the official mileage is computed from their instruments.

At the field another throng was waiting to watch the landing. Business men were on hand with a committee of greeters to welcome the two aviators, who were making history.

While thousands cheered and whistles and stens blew a noisy welcome, the big machine passed directly over the business district of San Diego and headed for North Island.

Two big army biplanes, sent out to meet the T-2, were left "in the dust," as the record making monoplane swept past them at a rate estimated to be close to 120 miles an hour.

At 12:21 the T-2 circled over North Island and prepared to land.

Spectators who thronged the flying field cheered lustily and waved enthusiastically to the sailing birdmen above them.

At 12:28 the big machine eased down onto the field and made a safe landing.

The greatest excitement prevailed, and the streets were thronged with thousands who talked of nothing but the two country flight.

The day was perfect for the finish of the record making flight, practically no wind blowing and the atmosphere clear without a sign of a fog.

The crowd at the flying field rushed out to meet the aviators as the airplane came to a stop. They were congratulated by Captain Gill Ervin, Lieutenant Virgil Himes and other army and navy officers.

Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly, holders of the world record for continuous flight, are the same intrepid aviators who heavily set out on a non-stop transcontinental trip from San Diego November 4, of last year.

After winning their way east as far as Indianapolis and setting a new non-stop record at that time, the aviators were forced down near Indianapolis with a leaky radiator.

Their determination to conquer space, however, was undaunted and the two aviators planned new devices and equipment which would assure them success on their next attempt.

Hopping off from Roosevelt field yesterday the T-2 pilots headed west on a venture as treacherous as any ever made by the ground and heavily laden with large stores of gasoline for the long journey, disappeared in the clouds.

As the clouds of night gathered about the two heavily coated figures, seated stiffly in the cockpit of the roaring monster, the aviators utilized their powerful searchlight and by the gleam of white in the inky darkness their progress was traced as they neared city after city in the mid-west. The trip was uneventful as far as Kansas City and there the heavy clouds poured forth rain and the explorers of the air wandered slightly from their chosen course.

LINCOLN HELD AX ON MAN, CLUE

Missing Attorney Threatened Prosecution, Claim

AURORA, Ill., May 3.—Discovery of a kit of surgical instruments used in illegal operations in the home of Warren J. Lincoln today gave police their first tangible clue in attempts to trace the attorney and his associates. The instruments, missing under mysterious circumstances, were found in a box in the home of a woman who disappeared early Monday, told police his father was holding the instruments as a threat of prosecution against one of his relatives by marriage.

The attorney found the owner of the instruments in the act of performing an illegal operation upon another member of the family, the son told authorities.

Efforts had been made to force father to surrender the kit, but he refused to do so, holding them as a threat of prosecution against the owner, the son said.

Search for the man named by John Lincoln was redoubled by police today.

Police at Wichita, Kansas, and Tulsa, Oklahoma, where the Lincolns formerly lived, were asked to hunt for the missing man and also for his relatives who disappeared last January.

Lincoln had property in both of the southwestern cities, worth, in the opinion of his son, about $20,000.

THESE GIRLS PROTEST THE "NO MARRIAGE" RULE

HELEN CROCKETT FRANCES PROCTER MARGARET DAVIS VIRGINIA WALKER WINONA ENGLISH

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 3.—Cupid has been ousted from college. With him go all Syracuse University undergraduates who marry.

It's the dictate of Chancellor Charles W. Flint.

"Marriage," he says, "will automatically cancel a student's enrollment and all of his—or her—connections with the university."

The order is received with a shrug of the shoulder and a knowing smile by the students who ask: "Why follow a professor's advice on love?"

"We'll do as our heart—not our chancellor—dictates."

Few take the order seriously, although the chancellor says the new regulation will be rigidly enforced, and that no exceptions will be made to the rule.

"Matrimony," says Miss Winona English of Rochester, N. Y., a senior at the university and one of the most popular students on the campus, "is pretty big thing to regulate by mandate."

"An order prohibiting students from marrying while they are in college will only work to increase the number of secret marriages. Regulation will foster deception on the part of those who wish to marry, and will not bring about the desired results of decreasing marriages and improving scholarship."

Most of the other students hold similar views.

"It's an infringement upon the personal liberties of a person," says Miss Margaret "Peggy" Davis of Sanborn, Pa., a junior student prominent in dramatics, "to dictate when he or she shall become married either in college or not. I know that I shall not get married during the next year, but yet I don't like to feel that I must remain unmarried because of a college professor's orders."

Miss Frances Procter of North Port, Long Island, a sophomore interested in various university journalistic activities, is just as emphatic. "Love," she says, "cannot be controlled by rules and regulations, and boys are just bound to get married when the time comes, order or no order."

"They will have to settle in their own minds whether they care about getting married more than they do about attending Syracuse University, and—love usually wins."

When Miss Virginia Walker of Cedarville, N. J., a student in the Fine Arts department, was asked for her views she exclaimed:

"I feel just as though I were going to be expelled from college."

She refused to admit whether she was married, engaged, or about to be.

"Students," she said, "are going to marry if they want to. They just can't help it."

"Marriage is bigger than regulation. Perhaps Chancellor Flint is right in trying to prevent hasty marriages, but I don't believe he can control such things by written order."

Miss Helen Crockett of Oneida, N. Y., a junior in the College of Home Economics and one of the editors of the Daily Orange, student newspaper, is of the same mind.

"College students," she says, "are just as human as other groups in society. When they want to get married, they aren't going to consider a regulation ordering them not to marry. When people, students or non-students, become serious on that question, there is only one thing that they are going to do—marry."

IS WORKING INJURY

Protective Duties Proving a Two-Edged Sword

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
NEA Service Staff Writer
PRAGUE, May 3.—This country has found a high tariff a two-edged sword.

Dr. Josef Macek, professor of political economy at the famous University of Prague and one of the best known economists in Europe told me this.

Czechoslovakia, he explained, had been forced to increase her tariff to prevent Germany dumping an avalanche of cheap goods on her. But in his opinion, the protection was built about the country, similar to that about America, and the people are already beginning to feel the effect in higher costs of living and in other ways.

Dr. Macek is still a very young man, in his thirties, earnest to the point of appearing intense.

Free Trade Needed

"I know nothing whatever about high politics in Europe," he told me, "but I have studied the economies of it pretty thoroughly. The result of that study leads me to the one conclusion that Europe will never prosper as she should, and could, until she can have free trade."

"I will not say free trade. For there are always inequalities in the cost of production, labor and so on, which must be equalized by means of an import tax."

"But we, for example, have built a tariff wall about ourselves which is stifling industry and killing trade. Nations must maintain something like a trade balance and this they can not do unless they are able both to buy from and sell to the same country. This virtual exchange of commodities keeps the exchange stable and gives impetus to trade."

"Czechoslovakia can't import normally because of the high tax on imports. This has brought about an increase in the price of our own products and, of course, an increase in the cost of living and in wages. But the wage increases have not helped the working man because if he makes more he also must pay more."

Unemployment Results

"And because we are not buying normally, other nations, as far as they can are turning their backs over to nations which do buy from them. This lessens production in Czechoslovakia and this in turn means unemployment."

"We are not badly off now because Europe is in a rather topsy-turvy state. Competition is not yet at its peak. When competition hits us with full force we will have to reduce our tariff to the lowest point commensurate with equalizing production costs, wages and so on, or we will suffer."

"You, in America, will no doubt have to face the same problem."

'BRONZE AGE' GRAVE

EDINBURGH, May 3.—A grave, believed to be 2,000 years old, has been discovered in Kilmarnockshire, Scotland. Digging on his farm, a Catterline farmer came upon a peculiarly marked slab about four feet below the surface, and under this were four other slabs of larger size. Beneath all this was a full-size human skeleton, with an ancient urn beside the skull. Antiquarians pronounce the grave to be typical of the Bronze Age, and experts are further investigating the discovery.

CITIES CONTEST TO REDUCE MISHAP

By NEA Service
CLEVELAND, May 3.—Cleveland and Detroit, rival cities in growth and development, are having another lively tussle—this time for the benefit and safety of the innocent bystander.

The contest, now three weeks old, is going on to see which city will come out at the end with fewer deaths and injuries from the traffic accidents. It started with a challenge by the Cleveland Safety Council to the Detroit Public Safety Committee and has so far shown Cleveland on top as the safer city of the two.

The first week found Cleveland with a toll of four dead and 56 injured, while Detroit had listed eight dead and 165 injured. During the second week, Cleveland again was ahead with two dead and 60 injured, while Detroit had 9 dead and 137 injured.

Since January 1 Detroit has recorded 65 traffic deaths and Cleveland 33.

Both cities are considered on a par for comparison, although Detroit has a larger population and more automobiles. On the other hand, Cleveland has more street cars in a more complex system, and less policemen to take care of traffic.

"This friendly contest will surely result in a decrease of accidents in these cities," says W. E. Telling, president of the Cleveland Safety Council. "It is hoped the same action will be adopted in other parts of the country, so that auto traffic accidents may be reduced to a minimum."

STONE GEARS

Ancient Relics Discovered in California

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 3.—In a recent excavation made near here, workmen found what apparently are ancient stone gears, probably used hundreds of years ago by Indians who inhabited this section of the country.

The gears were about two feet apart, and were uncovered fifteen feet below the surface. One was about four inches in diameter and had several teeth neatly cut and smoothed.

Among the theories held is that the wheels were part of a machine invented by the Indians for grinding corn. Another of the gears had eleven teeth. The stone is two inches thick.

The teeth on both gears bore evidence of hard usage, some of them being considerably worn down.

John D. Given Medal

NEW YORK, May 3.—John D. Rockefeller was one of five to receive the gold medal of the National Institute of Social Sciences Wednesday night. He was referred to as "the greatest philanthropist in the world, having given more than $500,000,000 to education and furtherance of medical research."

The others to whom medals were awarded are Jules J. Jusserand, French ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador; Dr. Charles R. Davenport, biologist and leader of the eugenics movement in this country; and Emory R. Johnson, dean of the Wharton school of the University of Pennsylvania.

The medals to Sir Auckland and M. Jusserand were given in recognition of "long and distinguished service," which have brought into even closer bonds of good will and friendship between the United States and England and France, the two great nations which they represent."

RADIUM IS CHEAPER

LONDON, May 3.—Radium is selling practically at bargain prices just now. For a paltry 430,000 pounds sterling ($2,150,000), one can buy a whole ounce of the elusive element in London. This is a reduction of over forty per cent on last year's price, due to recent discoveries and increased supplies. Purchases of a whole ounce of radium are not frequent, the more usual quantity required for being one milligramme, a mere speck scarcely discernible to the naked eye, which sells today at fourteen pounds ($70) compared with twenty-three pounds a month ago.

YANK PRINCESS FIGHTS FOR KALE

Russ Husband Now is a Carpenter

NEW YORK, May 3.—The eyes of the Princess Dimitri Galitzine snapped as she told of her hard fight for existence in Russia. The long batterings of fate have not broken the spirit of this "Yankee princess." Probably the Yankee part was uppermost when, with a stamp of her foot, she said: "I am bego to fight."

The princess was Miss Frances Stevens, a well-bred American girl. Her marriage in 1919 to Prince Galitzine, son of one of Russia's oldest and noblest families, attracted wide notice here. The fact that under the new rule in Russia the Galitzine fortunes were fast dwindling made no difference to her. She married her prince and they went to Russia, but things went from bad to worse, and her husband now is studying carpentry in the school Miss W. K. Vanderbilt established in Paris for rehabilitation of Russian noblemen.

Two weeks ago the princess left her husband in Paris to visit her mother, Mrs. Ellen Wells Probst, here, arriving Saturday.

"The lawyers told me my mother was mad," she said. "I found her very ill and sent her to a sanatorium. She was economizing so much to help me that some days she slept as little as 10 cents."

She sold five of my best horses for $20 each. The trust company that handles her affairs had a bill of $57,000 for legal advice. She let the apartment go for a few dollars, but I got it back. It looks as if I have lost almost everything, between the lawyers and the bankers.

"I am going to remain and regain my lost citizenship. There is no reason why I, an American girl, should not have the protection of the country I love."

EDEN'S GARDEN
IN MONGOLIA?

S. Time Radio to Aid Expedition in Search

By HAY C. MARSHALL.
Special Staff Correspondent.
PEKING, May 2.—An expedition will tick off the time for the uplanders in the Garden of Eden, what many scientists believe is the original scene of the snake and apple episode.

The Third Asiatic Expedition is on its way over the Gobi desert and for Western Mongolia where are fossil finds have already been enough to lead the scientists to make a determined search for the birthplace of man.

Part of the expedition will go into the southern part of the Gobi about 100 or 200 miles west and a little north of Peking to search for fossilized fig leaves, snakes' legs and any other thing that will increase knowledge of early animal and possibly human life.

Accuracy Essential
This section is carrying an up to date receiving radio set for use in map making. With the set are chronometers that must be occasionally corrected to the function of a second for slight error in time would mean many yards, even miles. The resulting map for instance might show the apple and fig trees on a mountain peak where a snake could never crawl, but the whole thing would be spoiled. Consequently the American Legion wireless plant will receive its time directly from Arlington and with the aid of a chronometer record and the time of the expedition in the Gobi.

The other part of the expedition will go 500 miles or so west of Urumchi, in the wooded hills to continue the work begun last year. Their discoveries were revolutionary so far as geological theories are concerned and they expect still greater finds.

Fossilized Mosquitoes
They didn't find Adam or Eve but they found the mosquitoes that bit them if they were there, fossilized and as good as new. The mosquitoes are supposed to have existed only in other parts of the world. Among these were reptiles with legs that might have stood upright as it has been said the snake did before he got Adam and Eve to eating about spring snakes. They also proved that Mongolia was once a much warmer country, a delightful place to live, which is in itself encouraging for the present climate is so cold, even on summer nights for the best garments.

The expedition has a fleet of American motor trucks reinforced by some few camels, and equipment that is comfortable if not luxurious.

Astronomer Says Life Exists
On Planets; Mercury is 'Hell'

BERLIN, May 2.—Life, vastly different from anything we mortals know, exists on the planets.

It is neither plant nor animal life, but there must be some creature, or creatures dwelling in our neighborhood.

At least, so opines Professor Julius Pfaund, noted astronomer, who knows about all there is to be known at the juncture about the moon and the planets.

And, his colleague, Engineer H. J. Gramatzki joins in the view that "life can exist in forms which are not disturbed by such temperatures as once filtered this side in which we live and which now reside in other planets."

Gramatzki is inclined to square with his Swedish astronomical colleague, Svante Arrhenius, whose "panspermia" theory would account for life in the universe by attributing it to tiny germs which frantically whirled about the earth.

Gramatzki says it hardly coincides with our own feeling of greatness to believe that infinitesimally small germs landing on the earth were responsible for the formation of the complex life now existent.

Just Like Hell
The planet Mercury is, according to his view, just like hell. Mercury is a reddish-yellow planet next to the sun, receiving six times as much sunshine per square meter as the earth and apparently always showing only one side to the sun.

The planet Venus he judges, has a life nearest approaching our own. The climate most nearly approaches that of the earth. Venus is about the same size as the earth and is surrounded by a strong moisture containing atmosphere which makes this world appear in the sunlight like a huge snowball. This cloud covering conceals the surface of Venus from our gaze, but scientific investigation indicates that there must be on this planet a deep twilight continuously, accompanied by thunderous weather.

"Plant organisms," says Gramatzki, "cannot thrive in this darkness. But when we consider that there is upon our own earth a bacillus which without sunlight and chlorophyll (substance which makes leaves green) can live in darkness of mud where it releases carbon dioxide, then this apocalyptic life problem is already solved in principle."

Our neighbor Mars is the extreme opposite of Venus. It has a cloudless heaven and we know its surface with its so-called "canals." Mars, however, gets sunshine and has a better cold climate with an average temperature at the equator below freezing point. While the American astronomer William Pickering thinks the Mars temperatures aren't so bad as painted Gramatzki avers that "a stay on Mars must nevertheless be terrible for humans."

"Life existing in such temperatures and in the midst of red deserts and mighty salt seas—if Arrhenius' theory is correct—can be little related to our own life. However, to put it on a lower plane than our own lacks any sensible basis, for who knows but what the higher phases of life are joined with a decrease battle for existence—a sufferer life than we humans have to lead."

As for Mercury, Gramatzki says, to picture a form of life "in this planetary hell is beyond our power."

And, his colleague, Engineer H. J. Gramatzki joins in the view that "life can exist in forms which are not disturbed by such temperatures as once filtered this side in which we live and which now reside in other planets."

Gramatzki is inclined to square with his Swedish astronomical colleague, Svante Arrhenius, whose "panspermia" theory would account for life in the universe by attributing it to tiny germs which frantically whirled about the earth.

Gramatzki says it hardly coincides with our own feeling of greatness to believe that infinitesimally small germs landing on the earth were responsible for the formation of the complex life now existent.

Just Like Hell
The planet Mercury is, according to his view, just like hell. Mercury is a reddish-yellow planet next to the sun, receiving six times as much sunshine per square meter as the earth and apparently always showing only one side to the sun.

The planet Venus he judges, has a life nearest approaching our own. The climate most nearly approaches that of the earth. Venus is about the same size as the earth and is surrounded by a strong moisture containing atmosphere which makes this world appear in the sunlight like a huge snowball. This cloud covering conceals the surface of Venus from our gaze, but scientific investigation indicates that there must be on this planet a deep twilight continuously, accompanied by thunderous weather.

"Plant organisms," says Gramatzki, "cannot thrive in this darkness. But when we consider that there is upon our own earth a bacillus which without sunlight and chlorophyll (substance which makes leaves green) can live in darkness of mud where it releases carbon dioxide, then this apocalyptic life problem is already solved in principle."

Our neighbor Mars is the extreme opposite of Venus. It has a cloudless heaven and we know its surface with its so-called "canals." Mars, however, gets sunshine and has a better cold climate with an average temperature at the equator below freezing point. While the American astronomer William Pickering thinks the Mars temperatures aren't so bad as painted Gramatzki avers that "a stay on Mars must nevertheless be terrible for humans."

"Life existing in such temperatures and in the midst of red deserts and mighty salt seas—if Arrhenius' theory is correct—can be little related to our own life. However, to put it on a lower plane than our own lacks any sensible basis, for who knows but what the higher phases of life are joined with a decrease battle for existence—a sufferer life than we humans have to lead."

As for Mercury, Gramatzki says, to picture a form of life "in this planetary hell is beyond our power."

20 MURDERED
DAILY IN U.S.

Professor Bases Figures On Crime Statistics

CHICAGO, May 2.—Twenty people are murdered every day on an average in the United States and one out of every 12,000 people commits a murder each year.

This was the statement of Prof. A. N. Farmer, noted educator.

"Murder exacts a toll of 7,300 lives a year in this country," said Farmer, who based his statement on government criminal statistics. "Moonshine brawls, holdup shootings, love triangles, poisonings, labor feuds and sex crimes are responsible for most of the murders. While the greatest percentage of murders are committed in the big cities, the rural districts contribute an appalling number of ghastly crimes to the total.

"Ninety per cent of the murders are committed with revolvers or pistols. The easy purchase of small firearms is responsible for this situation. Eight out of ten murders are committed by men and women who were neglected or exploited in their childhood."

LONDON, May 2.—John Murray, telegrapher, went to sleep on the main line of the railroad in his village. John's dead. A trackwalker found Murray on the right of way just after the train had passed. He was neither bruised or bleeding. A doctor declared the train had passed above his body after death occurred from sleeping sickness.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Suddenly Nick cried out, "Oh, look quick, everybody!"

"We must build a fort," said General Gold Brand to his wooden soldiers. "What kind of a fort?" asked Major Starch Front. "A wooden one as we are wooden ourselves," answered the general. "Private Iron Rod, take the motor truck and go and get us some blocks at the supply house. Get ones that haven't got A B C on them—and hurry!"

The soldier hopped into the motor truck and honk-honked away. Soon he returned with the blocks. Everybody pitched in and helped to build the new fort and Nick and Nick worked as hard as anybody.

Soon it was finished and a splendid fort it was. A wooden cannon was sticking out of every window and a flag floated bravely from a tall flag pole on top. Suddenly Nick cried out, "Oh, look quick, everybody! Here, comes a tank!"

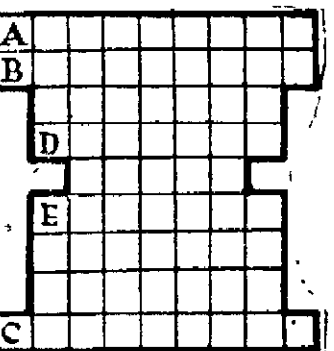

The whole army turned and looked with amazement at the queer object that came lumbering along like a huge bug knocking over fences and trees and everything that came in its path like so many toadpoles. A wide belt with spikes in it covered its wheels and kept it from slipping. There were openings in its sides out of which guns were pointing.

"It's a fort on wheels!" cried Corporal Clothes Pin. "Where is it going?" "It's going to run over the army!" cried Nick. "If you don't get out of its way it will run over the army. It is full of tin soldiers!"

The wooden soldiers fled in all directions as quickly as their stiff legs would carry them. The Twins hid, too. Scarcely had they reached their hiding place when Crash! Bang! The whole fort was in ruins. The tank had bumped it so hard it tumbled to pieces.

The tank went lumbering awkwardly away. (To be Continued) (Copyright 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

ANCIENT LEGEND OF GOLD IS LURE

Colorado Tourists Interested in Cave

ELTA, Colo., May 2.—An apparently bottomless pit into which eight men have descended to the depth of 1,500 feet without its reaching anything like a bottom, has been found at the end of a volcanic crater in the Sangre de Cristo range of the San Isabel national forest.

Air currents from the black depths of the pit are so strong that lanterns, held over the edge of the crater, are instantly extinguished and those wrapped about rocks and tied into the yawning chasm, are blown back into the air after the light has fallen hundreds of feet.

The pit is reached through a pass-way leading to a mountainous plateau. The walls of this passage, which is very narrow and only three feet high, are of solid marble. The chasm drops from the edge of the plateau which is reached after a five-mile trip through the passage. The pit, which is circular in form, is at 20 feet in diameter with a ceiling, shutting out completely all light. All this formation is of marble.

The chamber, known as the "Marble Cave" has been thoroughly explored by forest rangers but rarely has ventured persons.

Below the entrance of the cave, the floor is covered with the scattered fossil remains of animals prehistoric times.

In this district live people who are descendants of Spaniards who crossed the region hundreds of years ago. According to legend and stories told by these inhabitants, the Spaniards at one time possessed a rich gold mine in the vicinity of the "Marble Cave." These people have tried in vain to locate the mine, the "Three Steps." A few years ago, a gold nugget found near the remains of a pack trail and a home made pack saddle and a home made pack saddle were found in the cave.

It is the belief that the cave may be the entrance to the legendary gold mine, explorations of the interior of the cave are planned. Ruins of a primitive building were found on the side of the cave. A forest ranger discovered a ledge only a few feet above the entrance.

His leads old timers to believe perhaps the old Spaniards really existed and in the immediate vicinity of the cave.

DE VALERA NEAR TURNING POINT

May Turn Politician or Be a Rebel Chieftain

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

DUBLIN, May 2.—If a true Irishman is not yet here and Eamon de Valera today is the most famous man in Ireland—though he styles himself "president of the Irish republic," issues proclamations and gives out interviews.

Nobody knows where De Valera is. His headquarters are where he hangs his hat—and sometimes he is nowhere.

His capital is where he happens to be—and he is never in the same place more than a few hours.

He has a cabinet—but the members are rarely if ever with him. He has an army of irregulars—but they seldom see their chief.

He is likely to drink his breakfast coffee in one village and eat his breakfast bacon in another. Between times he has had a narrow escape to what his appetite.

The fact is that the first time in his life De Valera is the object of a really stern hunt. Irishmen are after him as Britons never were.

His adventures as a wanted man began in 1918 when British authorities locked him up. He was transferred to Lincoln prison in England.

One morning early in 1919 all Britain was flabbergasted when De Valera escaped. He returned to Ireland and in the late spring made a tour of America in the interests of his cause.

He did not return to Ireland until Christmas, 1920, so that he was out of Ireland 18 months out of the two years of the Black and Tan terror.

It is said De Valera is constantly surrounded by a small but very efficient bodyguard of youths, every one of whom is armed to the teeth and is a dead shot.

The other important link in his personal machine is a large body of devoted women, the most ardent republicans in Ireland. It is through them that all communication is had with De Valera.

The method of getting so-called interviews is to write down the questions and hand them to some young woman who is a cog in the Valera organization.

Some morning she may meet a woman friend and:

"Ah, Mary, a letter from Tim?"

"Yes, here it is."

"Nothing for nothing?" gentleman is for medical care.

BRANFORD, England, May 2.—When a local flower girl was fined pounds for breach of municipal law prohibiting hawkers in certain thoroughfares, it was stated that she already paid 200 pounds in fines similar offenses, but found the hidden profits so profitable that she was able to regard fines as rent.

WASHINGTON A BOOK SELLER

When 20 He Sold Blydell's 'American Savage'

CHICAGO, May 2.—George Washington is one of the great Americans who have given the business of selling books from house to house a historic background. The Father of His Country was in early life a "book agent."

This little known fact was recalled at a meeting of subscription book publishers here in an address by H. S. Branch of Chicago.

"When Washington was 20 years old," said Branch, "he sold a book known as Blydell's 'American Savage.' The year before, he had carried military messages from Richmond, Virginia, to Fort Duquesne on the site of modern Pittsburgh, and it was because of interest in the Indians that his experience had awakened in him that he started out to sell this book. It cost him $2 a copy and he sold it at $3. His diary shows that he sold more than 300 copies, which he had distributed to deliver the books himself in his saddlebags."

Houston Has 'Oliver Twist,' Say Police

HOUSTON, Texas, May 2.—A child trained in the ways of the underworld, is believed by local police to be working as the tool of a gang of crooks here.

Recently a store was robbed. A hole had been cut through the ceiling from the floor above. The hole was too small for even a small man or woman to enter.

A rope had been used to lower someone into the store who in turn carried various articles of merchandise to the rope which was then drawn up and the articles removed. The presence of a number of cigar stumps indicated that several men had taken a hand in the robbery.

No clues as to the identity of members of the robber band were ever found.

LIGHTHOUSES TO WARN AUTOISTS

Put On Dangerous Curves in Washington State

OLYMPIA, Wash., May 2.—No more will the lighthouse service be confined to rocky promontories or isolated coastlines. Modern automatic acetylene lights guaranteed to run and burn six months with no recharging are being installed at all dangerous curves, restles, bridges and crossroads on the several highways crossing this state.

Each lighthouse is six feet high, about 20 inches across the base, built of concrete and steel surmounted by a bullseye light 18 inches in diameter. Illumination will be red to indicate danger and of the flash type to distinguish it from any other in the vicinity. The flashes are to be timed at the rate of 50 a minute. An appropriation of $25,000 was made by the recent legislature to provide for these beacon lights. A corps of lighthouse tenders will be added to the State Highway commission.

The spectacle of the paved highways of this state at night with the flashing red spots gleaming over hill and down in the valleys will mark one of the most unusual innovations yet installed by the northwestern group of states.

Nothing has been attempted heretofore to make night driving so safe as the placing of the danger lights. They will also prove useful in foggy and stormy days when observation ahead is limited.

If you meet a Philadelphian, don't blame him for leaving. That town has harmonica contests.

Window Cleaner Club Organized By Students At Sherman College

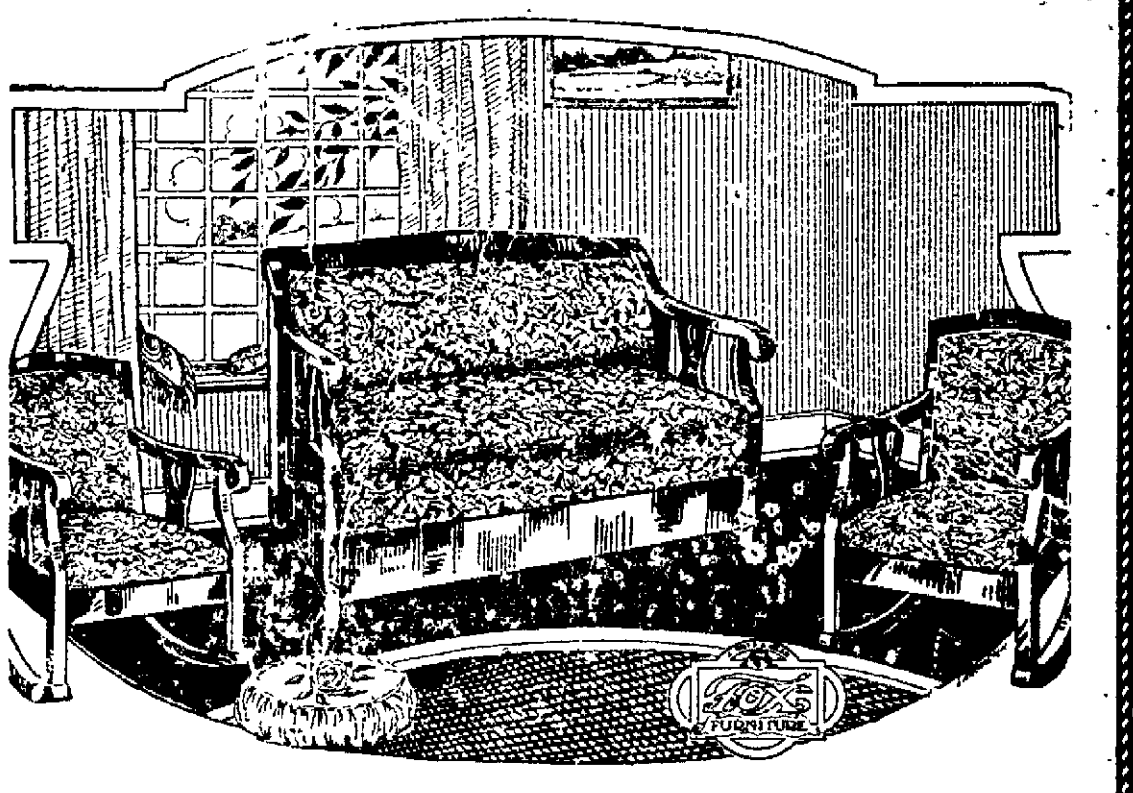

SHERMAN, Texas, May 2.—There's more ways of making money than one.

This has been illustrated at Austin College here, where C. W. Ross with the co-operation of Secretary Cushman of the college has organized the Student Window Cleaners.

The idea originated with Ross and his brother when the two were students at the University of Colorado in 1913. By this method they were able to pay their expenses through college.

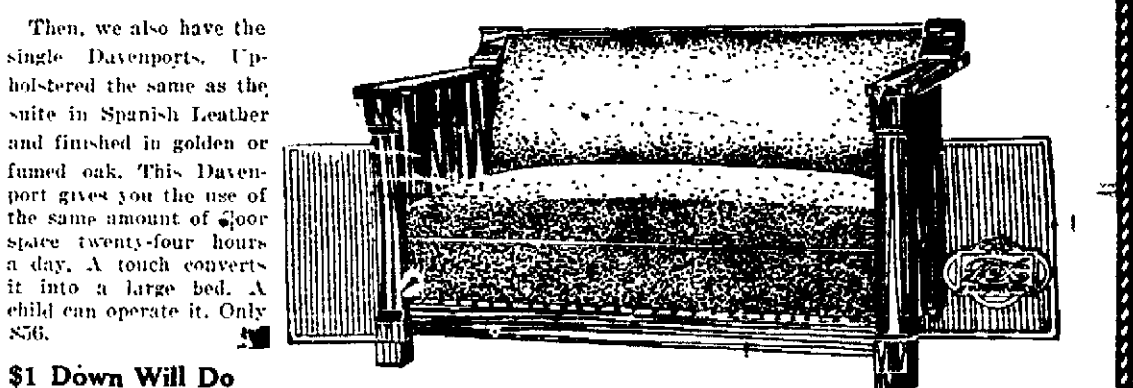

Since that time the brothers have established branches of the Window Cleaners in a number of college towns.

ITS TELLS OF MERGER FIGHT

System 19 Project Bitterly Opposed

Opposition to the consolidation of railroads as proposed by the Interstate Commerce commission at the recent hearing held by Port Arthur on the 24th and 25th of April was voiced by the Texas Chamber of Commerce and the state railroad commission, according to Frank Potts, traffic manager of the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce who was in attendance at the hearing.

The Texas railroad commission was represented by Commissioner Walter Spilern, who made the general statement that Texas interests as a whole are opposed to compulsory consolidation, and that such consolidation of Texas characterized lines holding charters to operate in other states would be in conflict with state statutes regarding railroads.

Spilern said however, according to Traffic Manager Potts, that if consolidations are to be made they should not be effected wholesale; that a few consolidations might be made and tried out to determine their advantage, but that otherwise, state interests are opposed to any such movement.

F. A. Leffingwell, traffic manager of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, representing all state commercial organizations, expressed open opposition to any general consolidation program, also, Mr. Potts said today.

The Texas Chamber of Commerce, he said, advocated legislation similar to that introduced in the 67th congress, May 22, 1922, by Walter H. Newton, which measure was prepared by the legislative committee of the National Industrial Traffic League proposing the repeal of the consolidation of railroads as far as an act of congress, and proposed consolidations only to be made on application of carriers affected, and where such consolidations did not lessen carrier competition.

The Interstate Commerce commission's tentative program, according to Traffic Manager Potts, proposed the consolidation of the K. C. S., Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific, International & Great Northern, Louisiana & Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf, and certain portions of the M. K. & T., Gulf Coast Lines, Kansas City, Mexico & Orient, and the Chicago & East Illinois. This consolidation, if effected, would be known as "system 19."

As a substitute for this proposed system, the Texas interests proposed the consolidation of the K. C. S., Gulf Coast Lines, Union Pacific, Chicago-Northwestern, Chicago & St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, Great Western, Los Angeles & Salt Lake and portions of the Washash and the Canadian Pacific.

So far as the city of Port Arthur is concerned, this latter consolidation would, considering tonnage, enhance foreign commerce and shipping through this port of grains, serving as direct outlet to the port from the great grain-producing areas of the country.

Tell's of Death's Borderland

OMAHA, Neb., May 3.—Mrs. Rafaela Mercurio has been in the shadow of the valley of death—and has come back to tell about it.

In a hospital here, she had apparently died. Her breathing was imperceptible. Her body had become purple. A priest had administered the last rites.

But Mr. W. A. Gierin directed a faint heartbeat. He injected adrenaline. Life returned.

Today Mrs. Mercurio is rapidly regaining strength. She will be caring for her home and family.

"I could feel death pulling me," she says. "It seemed I was far away and alone. I resolved to die in peace. Voices became gradually more distant and finally I could not hear them at all."

YOU AND I

FATE

Elmer Goss, steeplesack, falls 50 feet in Los Angeles, gets up, brushes himself and climbs back on the job. He's getting used to it, this being his sixth fall, in four of which his assistants were killed.

"I suppose I'll get killed some day," Goss admits. "But I have to give up the work. It pays $50 a day."

That's $300 a week. The other day it was revealed in a lawsuit in New York, that as far back as several years ago Mary Pickford was on a salary of $10,000 a week, or 33 times as much as Elmer Goss gets for risking his neck on steeples. Fate plays favorites, though some of us try to kid ourselves that all are created equal. Talent is partly responsible for Mary's huge income, but the principal factor was the invention of the movie.

THEATRICAL

You read about Mary Pickford's salary of $10,000 a week—over half a million dollars a year. There are hundreds of business men in America who make that much or more. Why do they catch your attention and cling less than Mary?

The big salary lure most of us. But what makes the real impression? Mary's fame—her silent applause. We're all theatrical at heart, long to strut before an audience. Let the average person gratify his vanity and he'll let you have the money.

CAVE-MEN

The camel originated on the American continent, small as a dog. Its descendants migrated to Africa, Arabia and Asia, probably by land bridges now sunken under the ocean waves. So says a scientist, lecturing.

In those ancient times, the American jungles also were inhabited by dinosaurs, some of the 70 feet long and large as a small bungalow. We're glad we haven't such reptiles around today. But we have our own type of dinosaurs—social and economic problems. And going up against them requires as much nerve as to face a dinosaur with a spear. There are, after all, only two real problems in life—making a good living and raising a family.

BOOM

Three years ago this May, the silk market collapsed and the great after-the-war boom began going to pieces. You recall those happy days when money grew on trees. The ghost of that prosperity is out of its grave now, for how long no one knows.

Just before prosperity had "a stroke" in 1920, business was going at top speed. And yet, for every 340 cars of freight moved by the railroads in those days, the roads recently have been hauling 184 cars. We're in a Production Boom now, not a Big Profits Boom as in 1920.

SPRING

Spring has been late this year because the sun has been having a chill. The heat cast off by that great furnace up in the sky is not up to standard. While it's only four per cent less than it should be, that's enough to play havoc with our weather.

So announces Prof. C. G. Abbott of the National Academy of Sciences. "Sensational" but extraordinary," scientists comment.

The sudden and unexplained cooling of the sun began about a month ago. Don't worry. A congressional committee probably will investigate it. The sun's chill follows a period of several years in which its heat was above normal. Apparently nature is merely evening things—restoring to normal balance.

RUM-RUNNERS

British liquor exports to Mexico (2) and West Indies (3) last year totaled 699,000 gallons, against 502,156 in 1918. At the most, not more than 2,500,000 quarts were smuggled into America last year, or only a quart for every fifty of us. Prohibition a failure?

Tom Sims Says

Who remembers the good old days, recently when 100 hours was the non-stop dancing record?

Man claims the queen of Spain doesn't dress properly. We claim he shouldn't watch her dress.

Movie actors hold the non-stop marrying record.

Pittsburgh will build a church 20 stories high, which will not get them any closer to heaven.

Collectors hold the non-stop coming back record.

Lassen Peak, our only active volcano, is breaking out, but it may be just a spring rash.

Street cars hold the non-stop at your corner record.

"Where are we going?" asks a reformer. We don't know, unless it is to a ball game.

Sugar holds the non-stop at a reasonable price record.

In Washington $300,000 worth of wood, burned, but none of the congressmen lost their heads.

Rockefeller holds the non-stop banking money record.

Cashier holds the non-stop being pretty quiet record.

MONTE CARLO AND ITS MILLIONS

Monte Carlo is the world palace of gaming and the gambler. There is nothing like it under the sun. For years and years it was owned by the scientific king of one of the smallest kingdoms on the map. Monaco is one of the show places of the world and Monte Carlo is its pleasure paradise for the plutocrats of the world and all those who have the money to play the gambling game.

Monaco has a new king and Monte Carlo has a new proprietor. This new king decided to get out of the gambling business. Those who were operating Monte Carlo were robbing their royal master, the king of Monaco. He called in Sir Basil Zaharoff, the Monte Cristo of Europe, who is said to have more money than Henry Ford and who would be able to purchase the Rockefeller possessions if they were offered for sale.

Sir Basil invested $5,000,000 in Monte Carlo. He became the king gambler of the world. Monaco has been his winter home for thirty-seven years. He never enters Monte Carlo. He is neither a patrician plunger on the wheel nor a piker sport seeking to make a killing. He gambles on a huge scale. He is the chief stockholder of many of the war munition firms of Europe. He has palaces in a dozen cities; he has town houses galore; he has country seats in as many nations; he is a patron of the arts and the sciences. He is the greatest philanthropist of Europe and it is said of him that he supports orphanages in almost every corner of Europe.

Sir Basil is a business man. He does not believe in waste. He revolutionized Monte Carlo. He dismissed hundreds of employees who were on the pay roll but never worked. All the managers and assistant managers and attaches of this magnificent gaming resort had to show efficiency or they lost their positions.

This was the rule all down the line. Sir Basil was on the job. He upset all the old traditions. He discarded all the lazy loafers or the lounge lizards. He reduced Monte Carlo to a business proposition, he gave it an accounting system, he introduced the clerks to modern bookkeeping and the financial agents of the place of the beauties of modern banking methods.

And the Monte Carlo correspondent says that the new system is working like a charm; that rich Americans flock to the place and swell the winnings of the new proprietor, that English lordlings and the sons of the idle rich of the British Isles are playing as they never played before.

But why criticize the man who is known as the most mysterious figure in Europe? He is the builder and the patron of twenty orphan asylums. He is their financial support. He gives more to charity, real charity, than any man in the world. He was born in Alexandria of Greek and Russian parentage. He is a citizen of France; he is the holder of a British title; the Monte Carlo Casino has been bankrupted by crooked employees of the king when Sir Basil took it over and now its profits are as huge as before the coming of the world war. Civilization is a funny thing and laws are the creations of civilization.

If Sir Basil lived in Texas he would be sent to the penitentiary for exhibiting games and the fact that he supported an orphanage in every county and gave millions annually to public charities, to those who needed it, would not mitigate his offense or temper the mercy of jury or court.

Over there he hobnobs with the patricians, the wearers of titles, statesmen and soldiers, scientists and seers, and is praised for his works and his benefactions. Over here he would be thrown in prison to enjoy the society of Mexican monte players, negro crap shooters, and "po" white trash.

TAXATION DID IT

Everywhere the world over, taxation is a vital issue. The New York Times tells of fifty prosperous-looking Dutch farmers who have come to the United States to escape what they term "excessive taxes imposed on them in Holland."

A steamer of the Holland-American line landed these Dutch homeseekers at the New York docks. One of the newcomers said his decision to emigrate to America had been hastened by an import imposed upon a piano he had in his home at the time that he was taxed.

The Times adds that the Dutch farmers, who were accompanied by their families, had no difficulties in meeting the physical, mental, and financial requirements of the immigration laws. They are educated, they are physically fit, they have money in their pockets, and they fled to America to escape an excessive tax burden imposed upon them at home.

These Dutch farmers believe that taxation should be equal and uniform. They know that should they come to Texas they shall find it equal and uniform because the organic law of the state declares that it shall be so.

ON TO RUSSIA

Florida is on the map again. Armed men, white men, representative of the civilization of their camp and their employers, threatened to shoot a negro to pieces if he led the members of a legislative committee to a grave wherein had been buried a white boy alleged to have been beaten to death by a whipping boss, the aforesaid whipping boss being a highly civilized and well-paid son of the Caucasian race.

This is what they said to the negro: "You tell them where you buried Talbert if you know what's good for you." As these highly civilized gentlemen were armed with Winchester, the negro held his tongue, and the legislators of Florida promised to report what had occurred to the governor and legislature of their state.

Lening is a Russian. When in doubt, give him hades. He represents the only brute nation on the map—but the murderers of Herrin and the whipping bosses of Florida should be shipped to Russia where they might cultivate the acquaintance of slayers of ministers of the gospel and other intellectuals.

WHY MEXICO?

There appears to be private prison camps in the timber regions of Florida where convicts are whipped to death and witnesses to the whipping are shot to death to close their mouths. Dead men tell no tales. Herrin should be annexed to Florida for massacre purposes. And Mexico is said to be a barbarous country!

WHY HE REVERSED

President Harding has made up his mind. He is for an international court with American representation. Now what are the Diehards going to do? They defeated the ratification of the League of Nations and the League of Nations provided for an international court. And it has come to pass that a Republican president is walking in the foot steps of Woodrow Wilson. Woodrow Wilson was fundamentally right; those who defeated the League of Nations were fundamentally wrong. This is the main reason why President Harding has reversed himself.

Charles Evans Hughes has snubbed the Russian Red Cross. This is what an American parlor socialist says. He is mistaken. Secretary Hughes snubbed the red government of Russia, and he did not resort to the language of diplomacy. He used the plain language of a plain people.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO HIS NEWLYWED FRIEND, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Although I know that no one cares for unsought advice, my dear Jack, yet I cannot see you go on the rocks without putting in my own say, so when the catastrophe comes I can say, "I told you so."

Fred Hartley called on me yesterday. He tells me that he saw you at Senator's Tea House last week with Paula Perier.

Look out, Jack! You are getting into something that you can't get out of and I know you don't want to have a smash up with Leslie. Since I arrived home I have been thinking over the mess you got me into with your wife and I am more disgusted with you than ever. Of all ridiculous, silly, futile, d— fools, Jack, you are the worst.

Now, of course, it will be the hardest thing in the world for me to meet Leslie when all the time I will be thinking that she is wondering what in the devil I put in that letter that you didn't want her to see, and if some one should happen to tell her about your "young" with little Peter, she will look it up with that same as a blaze. I wouldn't blame her a bit.

Had I been in her place, when you burned that letter I would have gotten Sydney Carton right over to face my husband and get the whole truth of the matter. As it is I am not sure that I shall not tell her the whole story. Little Peter and all, when I see her.

Anyway, I am just promising you that I am coming over very shortly and hope you will be in your new apartment for I am going to make a formal call on Mrs. John Alden Prescott. If I find it necessary, my boy, I shall carefully and explicitly explain to her what a confounded ass she has married.

Yours with friendliest intentions, SYD.

LETTER FROM THE JAMES REALTY COMPANY TO MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

A REGULAR GIRL

By BERTON BRALY

Say, what do you mean by a Regular Girl?

Well, that's a bit puzzling to state. Her hair has, perhaps, an irregular curl.

Or maybe it's perfectly straight: And maybe she's pretty and maybe she's not.

And maybe she's stately or short: But somehow or other you always can spot her.

A girl who's the regular sort.

There's them...G

There's always a regular feminine charm.

To all of her regular ways.

There's purity, too, which no evil can harm.

There's honor and truth in her gaze.

But there's an irregular whimsical twist.

To some of her thoughts and her acts.

Which makes her exceedingly hard to resist.

For mystery always attracts.

She's eager and joyous and vivid and smart.

She's healthy and wholesome and sweet.

Her Regular smile gives each masculine heart.

A slightly irregular heart.

A Regular Pal you can bank on for life.

With faith no hard luck can dispel.

And a Regular Girl makes a Regular Wife.

And a Regular Mother as well. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

TO RETRY FOSTER ON RED CHARGE

Conviction of Ruthenberg Paves Way, Claim

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., May 2.—Conviction of Chas. E. Ruthenberg, Cleveland, in the Michigan communist case last night, assures a retrial of William Z. Foster, liberal labor leader, state authorities declared today.

A jury found Ruthenberg guilty of violating the Michigan criminal syndicalist law by advocating overthrow of the United States government by force. The verdict makes the defendant liable to a ten-year prison term, a $5,000 fine or both.

Judge Chazy, White, deferred sentence until June 1 pending appeal of the case.

WITLESS KIDS INFEST MOSCOW

Boys and Girls Rob and Slay, Beg and Gamble

MOSCOW, May 2.—Moscow, "the mother of Russia," has trailing at her skirts an army of twenty thousand witless, otherwise motherless children who have come to her from all parts of Russia, and will not go back.

In the United States they would be the sect who go out and hunt for Indians, and are picked up, tired and dumb, in time to return home for a hot lunch.

Here they are not picked up. Transport is disorganized, there is much trouble, much poverty, children's institutions are crowded. So they become a part of the city, a little world of their own.

World of Own
They are a ragged, unkempt mosaic of Moscow, or of and great city. They have their leaders, their tradesmen, their beggars and thieves, even their dope-sellers and bootleggers. In Moscow the latter sell the fiery samogonka—Russian moonshine. And they have their good time girls—a pitiful, ragged, unfortunate little band of very young children—living and loving for the moment, and munching candy.

The authorities have done their best to help the children of Mother Moscow. But Russia is a big country, and has many children. These, satisfied with Mother Moscow, do not want to go home. There is poverty here; but there is poverty at home. At home also there are hard work and parental discipline. Here there are lights, and there is freedom to do what they want; and they are little men and women, untrained for and untrained.

Burrow Like Animals
They live anywhere and anyhow. A corner in a warm shed—any place out of the still, relentless cold of the Russian winter. They emerge from their burrows by day or night, according to their trades or tastes, and crawl back into them when day or night is done.

They sell newspapers, trinkets, odds and ends; pick pockets; work sporadically as errand boys or girls; rob houses. Some of them will grow up to be successful business men; most are already marked with the hard, glittering glance and restless movements of the criminal class.

In odd hours they gather in little knots at street corners where the lights are bright, swearing, smoking cigarettes, laughing loudly, leering at other boys and girls, giving to their women-folk part of the candy they have bought with the day's earnings, or acquisitions.

Many Arrested
Always underfed, often emaciated, they always seem to have money enough to gamble with, to buy cigarettes and candy with.

Last year they furnished 4,000 cases to the juvenile courts.

The Russian monnik, the peasant, is simple, almost childlike. These children of the monnik are an awful, pitiful mixture of sophistication and childhood. They beg, steal, fight, love, murder—and gather at the street corners to eat candy.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO ROUNTREE

Bryan Legislator Drops Dead In State House

AUSTIN, Texas, May 2.—Tribute to the memory of Lee J. Rountree, representative from Brazos county who dropped dead on the floor of the house late yesterday afternoon in the closing hours of the day's work, were paid by close and intimate friends this morning in the same hall where he served his people unswervingly for the past two sessions of the legislature.

Lying in state before banks of beautiful flowers and in the presence of the pictures of many notables who have gone before but whose spirit still lives, the body of Lee J. Rountree, beloved of all who knew him, rested for the last time in the halls where he consistently served the state for the past four years.

The most touching scene of the ceremonies was the entrance of an old confederate veteran, J. O. Bradford, bearing a small bouquet of roses. It was he who on yesterday brought a small bouquet of roses and presented them to Hon. Lee Rountree. It was this tribute of love and respect which discussion arose on yesterday at the conclusion of which the speaker's gavel fell for the last time conducting the remarks of the "gentleman from Brazos," as the gavel fell Mr. Rountree took his seat from which he never again arose to address the house.

The brief ceremonies this morning were opened by Speaker of the House Seagler who told why the house and senate and the many friends had gathered at the bier of their departed comrade. He was followed by Lieutenant Governor Davidson, who fittingly paid tribute to the memory of a co-worker.

John E. Quad of El Paso, fellow member and closely associated with Rountree in his legislative work, told of several incidents that portrayed the character of the man whose memory was being eulogized. It was a familiar saying of Representative Rountree's that "it was flowers for the living." He told of the counsel always offered by the departed member to others who complained of the reverse of life.

Hon. Butterwhite told of the beginning of a friendship that had lasted through more than a quarter of a century. He said that it was more than 25 years ago that he first knew Representative Rountree. It was while the latter was serving as clerk of the house.

EL PASO GATE TO NARCOTIC ENTRY

DO Agents Needed to Stop
It, Says U. S. Marshal

EL PASO, May 3.—That El Paso is the gateway to narcotic traffic into the United States was the opinion of D. A. Walker, United States marshal for the southwest, today.

"A majority of narcotics which find their way to all parts of the country enter by way of El Paso," Walker said.

"In order to curb the enormous traffic in morphine, cocaine, heroin, and opium from Mexico into the United States through El Paso, at least one hundred agents would be needed at this point alone."

"Even then it would be found exceedingly difficult unless more drastic penalties are provided for violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act."

"If Mexico were recognized by the United States a treaty regulating the narcotic trade might remedy conditions, but until diplomatic relations are resumed between the two countries and joint action is taken to stamp out smuggling this country is almost powerless to check the constantly increasing supply of drugs that find their way across the border," Walker declared.

PROTEST LABOR AGENTS FROM 'SNEAKING' HELP
SAN BENITO, Texas, May 3.—A resolution asking civic organizations of the valley to assist farmers in preventing labor agents "from the outside" from carrying off laborers needed in the valley cotton fields, has been passed by newspapermen comprising the Valley Press Association.

Each year, it is alleged, agents have come down from the cotton districts north of this section and enticed away laborers long before they are needed in the northern and central parts of the state and caused labor shortage here.

MARCH FIRES IN TEXAS TOTAL $346,145 LOSS

AUSTIN, Texas, May 3.—There were 196 fires with an aggregate loss of $346,145 reported to the State Fire marshal during the month of March.

Houston was the only large city included in the report, but the marshal announced that according to newspaper reports Dallas sustained losses during March that would almost equal the total amount officially reported to him.

BERLIN, May 3.—A barber here was fined heavily for an offense, but told the court he couldn't pay. However, he offered to cut the hair of the first 100 poor people who would present themselves at his shop if he were released. The court accepted the offer.

"Mothercraft," a New Science for School Girls Will Save Lives of Thousands of Infants in U. S.

Mothercraft is now taught in many schools

MISS MAY BLISS DICKINSON

By NEA Service

ATLANTA, Ga., May 3.—"Mothercraft," the new science of motherhood, has a nice, homey sound, doesn't it?

It was invented by May Bliss Dickinson of Framingham, Boston, and bids fair to become a national movement.

Just as "home economist" came along and saved the day, when kitchen dreary began to pull, so "mothercraft" has craftily taken out all the inkiness of "minding and tending the baby," and put training for motherhood on an altogether different basis.

Mothercraft originated in Boston as a school course. But it quickly spread over Massachusetts, and now will be nationalized by the 2,000,000 members who make up the General Federation of Women's Clubs, whose representatives now are holding a biennial conference here.

To Show Clubwomen

The work is to be presented by Mrs. Ira Couch Wood of Chicago, chairman of the General Federation child welfare division and nationally known as a child-welfare expert and collaborator of Miss Dickinson, who serves the federation in an advisory capacity.

"No young girl would purposely kill a child," but more than 100,000 babies die in the United States each year because the girls of today, who are the mothers and teachers of tomorrow, are not taught mothercraft," says Mrs. Wood.

"We are trying to train girls for intelligent motherhood, and whether or not they become mothers, they will have profited by a knowledge of mothercraft."

Almost 50,000 babies die each year in the United States before they are a month old. Investigation has proved that in most cases ignorance of the mother or wrong living conditions have caused the deaths.
